We collect your data. What exactly does that mean?

Types of data

As part of our normal business operations, we regularly process the following types of personal data, which we collect from you:

- Inventory data (data necessary for establishment, content-related design, change or termination of a contractual relationship; e.g. name and address)
- Contact data (data under which you or your company can be reached; e.g. email address or telephone number)
- Content data (communication content)
- Contract data (contract text and subject matter, term, etc.)
- Payment data (e.g. bank details and booking history)
- Picture and video data (e.g. press photos and videos of events and activities)

For what purposes do we collect your data? And are we allowed to do that?

1. To fulfill contractual obligations (Art. 6 § 1b GDPR)

The processing of the above-mentioned data of members of the association (or their representatives), customers, suppliers, service providers and consultants is conducted for the purpose of implementing the membership or contractual relationship.

For what purposes do we collect your data? And are we allowed to do that?

2. Consent

If in individual cases we process personal data in particularly data-intensive processes, we refer to Art. 6 § 1a GDPR. Before each of these processes, however, we ask you automatically and explicitly for your consent in accordance with national case law (BGH of 28.05.2020 (Az. I ZR 7/16)) as well as in accordance with European data protection regulations. You therefore always have the option to object to such consent.

For what purposes do we collect your data? And are we allowed to do that?

3. Legitimate interest (Art. 6 § 1f GDPR)

Outside of an existing membership or contractual relationship, we process your contact data for marketing purposes (membership acquisition/retention) in order to provide you with information about us, our association's activities and our services.

We derive our legitimate interest from recital 47 of the GDPR which states, i.a.: "The processing of personal data for direct marketing purposes may be regarded as carried out for a legitimate interest". With regards to the fact that you are addressed in your working environment and that there is a contractual obligation (or pre-contractual relationship) between our companies, advertising is in our legitimate interest.

This processing does not require your consent. However, you are entitled to the rights listed below.

If you participate in our events, we would like to point out that photos and video recordings are regularly taken, some of which are published on our homepage, in our social media channels and, if applicable, in the BREKO newsletter. If you do not want this, you can claim the rights listed below.

Where does your data go?

External service providers

Regarding the processing of personal data, we only use external service providers within the scope of our work in individual cases (exclusively within the scope of DPAs pursuant to Art. 28 GDPR). However, we primarily select services/tools that process personal data exclusively in the European legal area, according to European data protection standards. If, in individual cases, service providers of certain services/tools have their registered office outside the EU (e.g., in the United States), BREKO will only use servers located within the European legal area or within the framework of the standard contractual clauses of the EU Commission.

On our website, we may use extensions by third-party providers. Often, personal data is passed on to the third-party providers or transmitted automatically during such implementations. The type, scope, purpose and duration of this processing of personal data may vary in individual cases. For services that are not necessary, functions can be disabled via our respective cookie banner.

Bodies and authorities

In addition, data will be passed on to the respective authorized responsible body, insofar as this is required by law.
